

SVEN SET TO SIZZLE AT SYMMONS

Sven Burchartz's assault on the Porsche Driver's Challenge has been going along just swimmingly over the last few rounds and this weekend's Symmons Plains Tasmania event gives the likeable lead foot litigator another chance to extend that good form and confidence.

Burchartz's beloved #90 M&K Lawyers Porsche is primed and ready thanks to the hardworking crew at Sonic Motor Racing Services and the big fella is all fired up for a sizzling Symmons run.

Sven will no doubt have two specific reasons for wanting victory in this weekend's Porsche Driver's Challenge in Tassie – one of which has to do with extending his lead in the Championship as the series reaches the business end of the calendar.

The other has a little to do with harnessing a burning desire to out qualify fellow WTF racer and Sonic stable mate Jon "Refuse to Bend" Trende in the Berwick Insurance Group Porsche after Trende neatly accounted for his more experienced counterpart in qualifying at the treacherously wet Phillip Island a few weekends ago.

"I was very pleased for Jon that he was able to record an excellent time at Phillip Island," Sven concedes, "after all he's my team-mate. However a number of my pit crew found it amusing that he was quicker than I, particularly in the horrendously wet conditions, and repeatedly made that point some time after the actual race weekend. I'll be looking forward to Trendy and I BOTH putting in sizzling lap times in qualifying and Tassie and the deafening silence from my boys directly afterwards."

The WTF (We Tan Frequently) two car operation are looking to continue their winning form (Burchartz went on to win the round at Phillip Island though the crew have overlooked THAT) from the little Island to the main one this coming weekend.

At first glance on www.gtchampionship.com.au one could be forgiven for thinking that Sven is placed second in the Porsche Driver's Challenge but under the 'drop your worst round' criteria for the Championship Boston Legal Burchartz will be revealed on top.

For Burchartz and fellow Porsche Driver's Challenge protagonist Damien Flack, the competition has even extended beyond the racing surface to something of far, far greater importance – the respective 'cuteness of their respective infant sons in their "Mini Me" race apparel.

Winning, as they say, is everything.

Roll on Tassie!
